Lead Time Update – September, 2022

We're pleased to report that RH Peterson Co lead times for all product lines continue to improve. Please find below our current estimates for new orders:

Peterson Product Line	Current Lead Time Estimate
Grills	1-2 weeks
Vented Gas Logs	2-6 weeks
Vent-Free Gas Logs	4-8 weeks
American Fyre Designs	1-2 weeks

While these estimates represent our best takes as of today, the lead time for any given new order may vary depending on product mix, demand on popular SKU's and other variables. In many cases, it's now possible to expedite smaller orders in even shorter timeframes...the RHP customer service teams stand ready to assist.

Thank you for your support of Peterson Co. products.

In this issue of Tech Talks, we review the importance of ventilation and clearances in regards to your Fire Magic or American Outdoor Grill island. Read on...

RHP Tech Talks September, 2022

Island Ventilation in Fire Magic & American Outdoor Grill Installations

When installing grills in islands, it is imperative that the ventilation requirements and clearances to combustibles be carefully followed.

Issues arise when an island is custom made and the island builder does not follow the RHP installation instructions carefully. Ignoring the stated requirements can lead to very dangerous situations, such as explosions and fires.

In addition, proper clearances from the appliance to combustibles must be maintained. This ensures that temperatures of combustible materials remain within a safe range. The installation instructions specify all required clearances (overhead, rear wall, side walls, backsplash). If the island itself is constructed of combustible materials, an RHP insulating liner is required with the installation. (Insulating liners are available for both the Fire Magic and American Outdoor Grill brands. Click button below to view liners.)

Most, but not all, grill island contractors/masons know that a natural gas leak will rise but an LP gas leak simply pools at the bottom of the island. Either scenario increases the possibility of an accumulation of gases that could lead to fires and explosions. This requires that the island have proper ventilation. These ventilation requirements are in the form of openings at the top and bottom of islands and the size of these openings. The installation instructions specify all ventilation requirements. (Both our grill lines offer venting kits for safety. Click below to view Venting Kits.)

One might think that having refrigerators, doors and drawers in the island would satisfy this requirement – but this is incorrect, because these fixtures:

- are usually closed, and the frame around them is inadequate
- are not at the very top or the very bottom of the island
- are not in the proper orientation relative to each other

These requirements ensure that your grill is properly installed and safely operated and must be followed very carefully.

Fire Magic in the Media

As much as we love our beef on the grill, it's nice to mix things up and prepare something a little different. This month's recipe has Steven Raichlen showing us a pretty tasty offering: grillied Mexican trout.

With a simple marinade of fresh veggies, herbs, orange juice and olive oil, watch as Steven transforms an inexpensive piece of fish into a delicious meal bursting with unique flavor profiles. Though cooked on a Fire Magic gas grill, he uses a charcoal tray filled with wood chunks to infuse a smoky aroma and finishes it off with a fried garlic glaze. He speaks of the importance of cooking fish in a basket to protect the delicate flesh and our Rotisserie Basket, (# 3618) would be a wonderful accessory for this recipe and many others. Remember, you don't need to cook this fish on a rotisserie, but you certainly could. Bon Appetit!

More of Steven's video recipes are available - check the Project Fire website for a list of local stations airing the show.

"THAT'S MY GRILL!"

Thanks to all who submitted photos for "That's MY Grill!" Your photo may be used in a future issue of RHP Connect.

This eye-catching grill island design is simplicity at its best, when simplicity must be off the chart and innovative.

A work of art, this island consisting of a Fire Magic Echelon, storage access door, refrigerator, and a vent hood, is wrapped in rustic stone with a chiseled granite countertop. Overhead space heaters take the chill off the evening and if it really gets cold, simply close the sliding glass doors in the rear to create a wonderfully cozy cooking and entertaining space.
